FLOOD CLEANUP SAFETY AWARENESS FOR SEWER AND STORM BACK UPS

WHO: Cincinnati AFL-CIO Labor Council and its sister organization, Greater Cincinnati Occupational Health Center (GCOHC) in partnership with Hamilton County Emergency Management & Homeland Security Agency

WHAT: FLOOD CLEANUP SAFETY AWARENESS FOR SEWER AND STORM BACKUP TRAINING OBJECTIVES - Heavy rain, rising rivers, swollen creeks, basement flooding. Sewage and wastewater contain bacteria, funguses, parasites, and viruses that can cause intestinal, lung, and other infections. If equipment, work practices, and personal protective equipment (PPE) don't protect you from swallowing these agents, you can get sick. During any part of treatment, transport, or application of sewage sludge, you can be exposed to materials that can cause disease. This is true even if you work around treated (class B) biosolids. Careful work habits can help protect you. This class help participants increase their awareness of the hazards involved in post-flood cleanup, the protective equipment that may be necessary, and community resources available.
